Join us for Edmonds Community College’s sixth annual Leadership is You! Conference, 12-5 p.m., Friday, January 29! Get the skills necessary to develop and enhance your leadership abilities.

Who can apply?
- All current Edmonds Community College and Central Washington University-Lynnwood students (whether you have previous leadership experience or not)

What does it cost?
- A $5 confirmation fee to secure your spot. Make sure to register early because space is limited!

What do you get?
- Educational sessions of your choice based on your current level of leadership and what you find interesting.
- Lecture by keynote speaker Marli Williams
- Dinner following the educational sessions

By the end of the conference, you will learn to:
- Reflect to formulate a unique and personally meaningful definition of leadership that exists independently of a title/position
- Recognize the merits and challenges of various leadership styles
- Cultivate an elevated level of confidence in personal leadership skills
- Exchange insights and establish connections with peers and current student leaders through networking
- Acquire techniques designed to re-energize in order to avoid student leader burn-out
- Identify on-campus leadership opportunities for potential involvement
- Translate and apply individual leadership skills to future career opportunities
